KANSU QUAKE PICTURES TO BE EXHIBITED HERE

Remarkable Views Taken By Hall-Hayes Expedition To Be Shown

RELIEF WORK GOES ON

Seven Thousand Laborers Busily Digging Away Earth Slides

Arrangements are under way for Mr. Josef W. Hall, staff correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS at Peking, to show in Shanghai the remarkable Kansu earthquake views taken by himself and Reverend John D. Hayes on their recent investigation expedition. These views were screened recently before a crowded house at the Peking Pavillion, and a repeat showing in Peking under the auspices of the Kansu Earthquake Relief Society has already been arranged.

One of the features of the Kansu disaster, which cost somewhere near 150,000 lives, is that, although it occured on December 16 last, the shock being felt on the China coast, the full story of the earthquake is only now, through the work of Messrs. Hayes and Hall, being given to the outside world. A series of seismic disturbances occurred at that time, in Yap, Japan, Central America and Chili, South America. It now appears that the Kansu quake was by far the most serious of all.

That the face of the earth could be so changed by seismic disturbance would be almost unbelievable had we not the views of Messrs. Hayes, Hall and Chai as proof. The tremendous land slides which obliterated villages and covered valley floors, damning the streams, are probably unique in history.

A 'ROCK SLIP'

The pictures bear out the theory of a rock-slip, and the vestiges found by the investigators of two great earthquakes in the past; one in the Tang Dynasty 1,200 years and the other in the Ming, 300 years ago, lends color to the theory that these slips are caused by the shifting weight of the loess.

THE CHINA PRESS was the only newspaper to announce to the world the cataclysm. It took several days for the wire from THE CHINA PRESS's correspondent at Kuyuan, Kansu, to get through to Shanghai, and the news came as a complete surprise; the disturbance registered by the fine Siccawei seismograph having been popularly credited to the Yap quake or Mt. Asama eruption.

The Lanchow International Earthquake Relief Committee which is acting as the Kansu sub-committee of the Peking United International Famine Relief Committee, has informed the Peking body by wire that seven thousand laborers are now engaged under the direction of the Lanchow committee in releasing the damned-up streams between Chingning and Hueining.

EXCAVATING METHOD

The Directors of Works, Mr. Andrews and Megistrate Chow, are following the scientific method of excavating the lower blockages first, working their way upward so as to allow the release of the imprisoned water in the most natural and gradual manner.

Excavation upon the Tung Wei blockage twenty miles above Chingning will be completed, states the telegram, within a week. The work upon the remaining three loess slides in the upper Chingning valley will be completed soon, thus removing the impending danger of washout to the city of Chingning in safe time before the summer rains.

The entire labor force will then be concentrated on the three blockages higher up near Hueining. One of these will constitute the biggest piece of work of the entire relief. It consists of three separate slides from three different mountains piled up in layers making a small hill in the river bed. Work on the slides in the Mohammedan district to the north has apparently not yet been outlined, but there are no large cities in the valleys below these blockages so that the threat to life and property is much smaller.

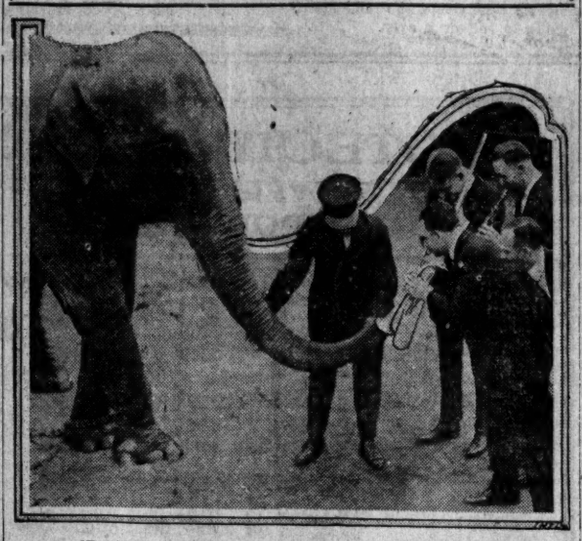
Washington, June 13.—Senator Harrison has introduced a resolution in the Senate declaring that the reprimand or recall of Ambassador Harvey for his recent speech in London is as justifiable as the recall of Admiral Sims.

Jazz Strains Prove Disgusting To Animals In Zoo



(Reuter's Service)

NEW YORK (by mail).—Humans may like Jazz but animals don't.

This was the conclusion reached by a group of scientists who recently assembled in the Central Park zoo to see what a saxaphone and traps would do to the emotions of monkeys, lions, leopards, elephants and other jungle beasts.

A quintet of musicians guaranteed to rag anything from Wagner down was massed in front of the monkey cages for the first laboratory test to determine whether the line "music hath charms to sooth the savage breast" was, after all, only poetic license.

According to a corps of unscientific reporters who journeyed to the zoo with scientists from Columbia University, American Museum of Natural History and New York Zoological Park, the monkeys registered emotion all right—but of a rather savage kind.

Then the latest Jazz was banged into the ears of lions and their mates. All hopped to their feet, with fur bristling.

As for Mrs. Murphy, hippopotamus, she merely wrecked the experiment by diving into her tank and shutting out the racket. The elephants seemed to tremble wtih rage.

Only one beast was found that apparently was able to endure, if not enjoy, Jazz. That was Bagheeta, the leopardess. But when a hymn was played, she started a six-day race around her cage, spitting sparks. The scientists, however, put a question mark after Bagheeta's test, for attention was called to the fact that, at the moment, a keeper whom she chose to relish only as a potential meal, had just passed her cage.

MINISTER CRANE TO RETURN HOME THROUGH RUSSIA

American Association Of North China To Give Farewell Luncheon

A farewell luncheon in honor of the American Minister, Mr. Charles R. Crane, is to be given by the American Association of North China at the Hotel de Pekin today.

Mr. Crane is leaving Peking and China within the next few days for Harbin, and America overland through Russia. He will be met at Harbin by his son Mr. John Crane, and Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, writer on international politics affecting the Far East.

The latter has been the guest of Mr. Crane at Peking since his return from Malaysia a few weeks ago. Dr. Hornbeck and young Mr. Crane will accompany the Minister westward from Harbin as far as Chita, from which point they will return to Peking for an added stay until fall.

U. S. COASTWISE BOATS TO ESCAPE PANAMA TOLLS

Senate Committee Reports Favorably On Exempting Resolution

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 13.—The Senate Commerce Committee has decided to report favorably on the bill to exempt American coastwise shipping from the payment of the Panama Canal tolls.

While the Harding administration and the Republicans in Congress are pledged to the idea of exempting American ships from the Panama Canal tolls, there is tremendous opposition to it, especially on the part of the railways which fear that the effect will be to diminish transcontinental railway business.

There is also the question of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, signed in 1901, prohibiting discrimination against foreign vessels, in which connection the New York Times declares that Great Britain's consent must be secured before steps can honorably be taken to give American ships special privileges in the canal.

TROOPS CALLED OUT

Armored Cars Compelled To Fire Before Order Could Be Restored

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—Seven persons were killed and 40 wounded in rioting which occurred at Belfast on Saturday and Sunday nights. Four of the dead who were the victims of mysterious executions, were dragged from their beds and shot outside their homes. These included an aged clergyman, formerly Dean of Leighlin.

The fighting between rival crowds in the streets of Belfast yesterday evening was most remarkable, snipers using revolvers and rifles, and occasionally dropping bombs from windows. Armored cars with troops which were rushed up were compelled to fire in order to disperse the mobs.

Britain Neutral In Greek-Turk Dispute

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, bombarded with questions on the subject of Great Britain's attitude towards the Greeks and Turks, said that the attitude of the Government throughout had been strictly neutral. It was still hoped, in conjunction with the Allies, to bring about peace between the Greeks and Turks and the Government would lose no opportunity of doing so. The Government had no commitments to support the Greeks by military or financial means against the Kemalists.

ARMY ESTIMATES

JOHN R. HYKES, LONG PROMINENT IN SHANGHAI, DEAD

Veteran And Revered Resident Dies At General Hospital

FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON

Masonic Body To Be In Charge Of Ceremony

Dr. John R. Hykes died yesterday morning at the Shanghai General Hospital.

Couched in a dozen words this announcement will carry for Shanghai, and for many other parts of China, a burden of regret which would find difficulty of expression in columns of type. For with the passing of Dr. Hykes Shanghai and China lose one of the best known and most beloved figures of their past half-century's book of record. Mission pioneer, educator, civic servant, his life and efforts had endeared him to a circle the circumstance of which includes not only the foreign communities of the Settlements and of the outports which have known his work but the Chinese of a wide area of the Flowery Kingdom. And as his body is borne this afternoon to its resting place in Pahsienjao Cemetery there will follow it, in person or in thought, a host who knew him not only as a worker for the public weal, but as counsellor and friend.

The history of Dr. Hykes' forty-eight years in China is one of service—throughout. For twenty years in the outports and for nearly thirty in Shanghai he had labored earnestly and well in the interests of his fellow man. He was outspoken and fearless in his attitude on any issue; those who stood against him found him an opponent of redoubtable and dauntless cast, but among these no less than among his closest friends there existed an admiration and respect which stands perhaps as the most eloquent eulogy with which his memory may be crowned. His death, though he had been seriously ill for some weeks, comes as a shock to the entire community here. Some time ago those who had been used to seeing him, hale and hearty, about the streets, learned with deep regret that he was failing in health. About the middle of February he went to Peking, for a change as well as upon business,

Gift Giving Is China's Great National Pastime

BY ELSIE McCORMICK

WHOEVER has tried to cut an overgrown Christmas list down to fit a modest and shrinking income without losing too many friends, or whoever has bought an inexpensive wedding present and wrapped it in an [illegible] box with a prayer that the bride wouldn't try to return it can spare a little sympathy on the average Chinese family obliged to keep frantic pace with half a dozen editions of Christmas, to say nothing of weddings, funerals and birthdays.

Social popularity in China brings with it so many pains and penalties that the foreign observer wonders why the nation doesn't consist mostly of hermits. Surely no Chinese sits up late nights studying how to make friends, for each new friend means a heavy tax in the shape of gifts to celebrate every [illegible] in his biography. The high cost of living isn't a circumstance to the assessment on sociability which relentless social custom wrings from everybody who tries to be neighborly.

ABACUS HELPFUL

If one Christmas a year seems a burden, just multiply it by three and the number of your relatives by ten. This will give a fair idea of the gift-burden within the Chinese family circle, quite irrespective of the remembrances due to friends. Three times annually—at New Year, the Dragon Boat Festival, and the Mid-Autumn Festival—each household must send a number of presents to every other household connected with it by even the slenderest threads of kinship.

Custom demands that the gifts, which are usually edible, be grouped in multiples of four, and also that the recipient give them back after accepting those which are least expensive. As soon as the other gifts are returned, the animated Christmas tree who dispatched them makes up for the acceptances and hurries them off to another family. Apparently the rule of accepting the less expensive things works out for the benefit of the giver, but as a matter of fact, by the time the foodstuffs have made the rounds of the relations and have been rifled by all the servants along the route, it is a sad assortment of ancient fish, moldy cakes and squashy fruit that eventually finds its way into the family pantry.

EVEN OVER THE RIVER

Even middle class families in China are obliged to keep elaborate record books of gifts received from relatives and friends, so that appropriate return may be made when occasion requires.

Announcement of a death means presents of blue or white silk curtains, incense, candlesticks, or paper money. Those who favor the introduction of up-to-date improvements into the spirit world present the deceased with paper motor boats, automobiles, or airplanes for his soul to use in its joy-rides through the shadow country.

A wedding announcement likewise demands a gift, which is usually presented to the groom's family rather than to the bride. In China a wealthy man may encore the wedding ceremony six or seven times, which means that his friends are fined every time he commits a Brigham Young.

The gift situation is further complicated by the popular

FRENCH SEE NEW ERA IN RELATIONS WITH BERLIN

Loucheur-Rathenau Conferences Herald Good Will, Belief

PLANREPARATION

Envoys Go Into Details Over Work Of Restoring War Areas

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 13.—The conference between M. Loucheur, the French Minister for the Liberated Regions, and Herr Walter Rathenau, the German Minister of Reconstruction, opened at Wiesbaden Palace on Sunday morning and was resumed in the afternoon. At the first meeting the problem of reconstructing the devastated areas was discussed on broad lines, while at the second the two ministers took up the question in detail, especially with regard to the supply of materials and labor.

In an interview afterwards, M. Loucheur declared that Herr Rathenau had emphasised the sincere desire of the German Government to carry out all the conditions of the Allied ultimatum. The conference had not produced a solution of the reconstruction problem.

NEW ENTENTE

The Petit Parisien expresses the opinion that even if striking achievements do not emerge from these conversations, what is probably more important is that a new kind of entente will have been created. The journal is convinced that Herr Rathenau is determined to arrive at a definite result but that he is now faced by practical difficulties of which he had previously been unaware. From today, the Petit Parisien continues, a basis for agreement has been established between the two Ministers of Reconstruction.

Other newspapers also lay stress on the importance of this fact, which, they point out, is an absolutely new phase in Franco-German relations, outside of international conferences.

The Echo de Paris says that never since 1871 did French and German Ministers discuss the common interests of their countries.

The newspapers of the Left regard the conversations between the two Ministers as a new turn of events, but say that no co-operation with the Cabinet of Berlin is possible until the latter has undertaken fully to carry out its obligations.

The newspapers of the Right, on the other hand, and in particular the Echo de Paris, are somewhat apprehensive and question Germany's sincerity.

HOW ABOUT STINNES

The Excelsior points out that nothing has been heard of Herr Hugo Stinnes, who is saying nothing and is waiting in the background. The journal adds that while it is bound to welcome Herr Rathenau's good intentions, as expressed in his recent speech in the Reichstag (when he declared his readiness to do all in his power towards the reconstruction of Northern France and towards the honoring of Germany's debt), nevertheless it is only by results that Herr Rathenau can be judged.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 13.—The newspapers give prominence to a private conference at Wiesbaden between M. Loucheur, Minister of Liberated Regions and Reparations, and Herr Rathenau, the German Minister of Reconstructions, which is the first of a series, to be continued at Paris, between representatives of both Ministries on the subject of the method by which Germany is to discharge her liabilities.

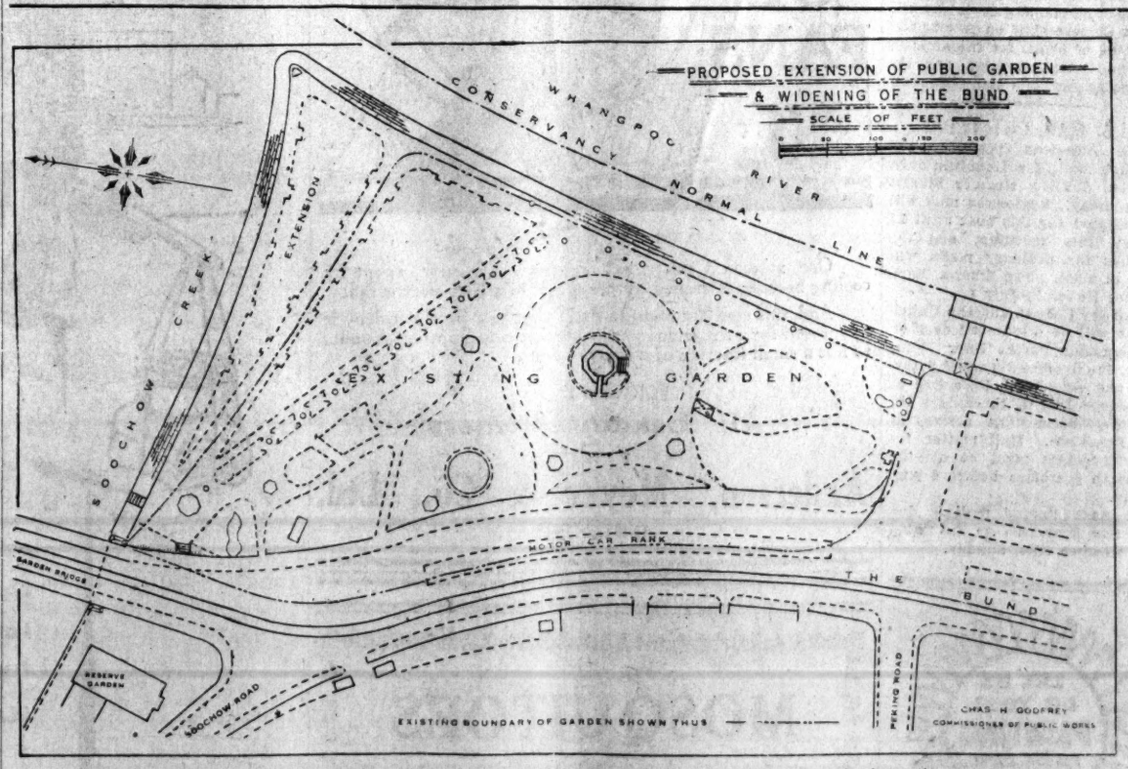
The papers express the opinion that the outcome of the meeting seems to indicate the necessity for some sort of a Franco-German economic and commercial co-operation.

NEW YAP OFFER

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 14.—The Morning Post's correspondent at Washington states that a long step has been taken towards allaying unpleasant feelings between Japan and America in the Japanese offer to the United States of equal cable rights in Yap, including control of the Guam-Yap cable.

A Protest Against Destruction Of The Public Gardens



THE CHINA PRESS has received a letter from Mr. W. Bruce Lockhart protesting to Mr. Charles H. Godfrey, Commissioner of Public Works, against the alterations which are being made in the Public Gardens.

Mr. Lockhart feels so strongly about the matter that he has written a letter which won't bear publication. With the thought, however, that his arguments merit consideration, we reproduce herewith the plan which is in process of being carried out. This is taken from the drawing which appeared in the annual budget presented to the ratepayers at the last annual meeting. Not very much consideration was possible at the time but the budget was passed, with this plan as a part of it, and we may therefore assume that the thought did not occur to the ratepayers in their hurry that the scheme involved the destruction, or at least the removal from the gardens, of many fine old trees.

Mr. Lockhart's attack, while it is addressed to Mr. Godfrey in his official capacity, as the head of the department in charge of this work, really constitutes an indictment of the Municipal Council and the ratepayers, and in our opinion, could have been used almost in full if it had been addressed to the Council and Ratepayers.

A study of the drawing shows that a valuable strip is to be sliced off the Gardens in order to widen the road leading down from the Garden Bridge, where a new road and another space for parking motor cars are to be created. On the river and creek sides the gardens are to be expanded. Mr. Lockhart contends that this is expensive and unnecessary and that the beauty of the whole Bund already having been destroyed, the Gardens themselves, or at least their most beautiful and useful features are now to go the same way; all this in order to make more parking space for motor cars, or as he puts it, "to make new lounging places for chauffeurs."

He asserts that the "once beautiful Bund has been turned into an arid waste of ugliness, turned into mud pies which are called Motor Car Ranks." And further that now we are to "chop down all these beautiful shade trees, destroy the tropical plants and growths, demolish the flower beds and winding paths, to make forsooth, another mud pie for motor cars!"

"What an age is this, when the children's only playground and beauty spot left in the crowded Central District is to be destroyed?" is one of the questions Mr. Lockhort asks. He adds that he considers children more important than chauffeurs. He charges the Municipal Council with lack of moral courage inasmuch as it has failed to put a stop to what he terms "destructive folly."

Our suggestion is that the whole town ought to go down to the Public Gardens and get a "close-up" on the matter. Perhaps Mr. Lockhart and Mr. Godfrey would be willing to explain their viewpoints from the bandstand—say on Thursday at noon.

Dollar Line Adding Two New Ships To Far East Service

Alice Dollar Bui't In Shanghai Loading Now For Service In Gorges; New Robert Dollar Acquired In German Reparations

The Robert Dollar Company is adding two new ships to its Far Eastern Service, one built in Shanghai for services in the Yangtsze Georges, and another, acquired from Germany in the reparation allocations. The first, the Alice Dollar, built along the lines given the highest American classifications, is now loading in Shanghai for its first perilous voyage through the river canons; the second, re-named the Robert Dollar to replace the older vessel of that same name which was sunk during the war by German submarines, is now enroute to the East to enter the Pacific run, with Shanghai as principal port of call.

The new steamer Alice Dollar began loading yesterday for its first trip up the big river. The boat will be dispatched by the end of the week.

The Alice Dollar's speed trials, which were conducted Saturday on a seven mile reach off Woosung, in the presence of owners' and builders' representatives, with the boat in ballast a speed of over 15 knots was easily maintained. An excursion trip was made up the river to Ming Hong Sunday when a large party was entertained aboard by the builders, the Kiangnan Dock and Engineering Works.

The hull and machinery were built under special survey of Captain W. I. Eisler, designed to surpass any existing ships in the river trade. Sub-division has had much attention to insure safety in the event of hull being pierced in the dangerous waters of the Upper Yangtse. The foreign and Chinese passenger accommodations are exceptionally well arranged and all berths are on the upper decks in large airy rooms provided with fans, electric light, running hot and cold water, etc. The dining saloon is very handsomely furnished.

The dimensions of the vessel are as follows: Length—205 feet, beam—31 feet, draft—8 feet; carries about 450 tons deadweight and steams 14 knots deep loaded.

The new Robert Dollar is a freighter; her dimensions are nearly those of the Empress ships, indicating that she has good speed and ample cargo space. She is 522 feet long, 65½ feet wide and is of 40¼ feet draft, her displacement being 25,000 tons. The Robert Dollar, largest of the fleet of new freighters owned and operated by the Dollar company, will be on the direct around-the-world line, New York to Manila via Panama, Shanghai and Hongkong, and Manila to New York via Singapore and Suez.

lack of reticence in regard to birthdays. In the West, people with more than twenty-five candles on the cake usually decline to make a statement but in China, the man who reaches thirty or forty sends out a neat little circular to his friends and then sits down happily to await the returns.

He must keep a careful record of each gift received, so that when his friends retaliate with circulars of their own, he will not make the mistake of rewarding a mere good luck character with porcelain vase. The Biblical verse about reaping even as you sow is literally enforced in China's gift system.

GETS 'EM ALL

The present habit permeates every stratum of life, from garbage coolie to president. Officials carrying favor with their superiors hint for promotion by means of silver cups or silken tapestry. A minister giving a dinner party borrows furniture lavishly from his subordinates and always forgets to return it, but the subordinates who have eyes on better positions never register any protest. A former governor of this province who coyly announced a birthday received an avalanche of gifts amounting to a quarter of a million dollars, every one of which had a long and twisted string attached. The proverb which advises one to beware of the Greeks when they came bringing gifts is true in China with compound interest. Whoever receives a present from a Chinese out of a clear sky is cautioned to restrain his gratitude until he discovers what is on the other end of the see-saw.

Garbage men are likewise affected by the gift germ. He who fails to remember them with a small present on the occasion of the three principal festivals is likely to find kitchen refuse from all the neighboring houses scattered carelessly before his door-step. The dweller in a Chinese passage who fails to bestow a gift on the night-watchmen will find the gate to his particular alley locked early in the evening, to his great discomfiture when he returns from a late party at the New World.

Many up-to-date Chinese are trying to simplify the custom by giving money instead of presents, thus saving an expenditure of much time and thought. Most of the larger Chinese stores in the city have gift merchandise orders for the purpose.

Someday, perhaps, a heroic leader will start a crusade to save his countrymen from the fate of being a perpetual Santa Claus, and unless we are a very poor guesser, the entire nation will arise and call him blessed.

3,000 Rotarians At Big Convention

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—The International Rotary Convention has opened at Edinburgh with three thousand delegates present, half of whom are Americans. The President, Mr. Estes Snedecor, of Oregon, said that the movement, which had a membership of 70,000, could serve the world, which was grouping for some association of nations; for the destiny of the world was largely in the hands of business men.

Madame Shen Shu Yu, Famous Embroidery Artist, Passes Away

One Of Her Noted Works Was Portrait Made With Needle Of The Italian Queen

Madame Shen-shu Yu, the well-known artist whose embroidered portrait of the Italian Queen was exhibited at the Industrial Exposition held at Nanking in 1910 and valued at $30,000, died at her home in Nantungchow on June 7.

It is to be remembered that the remarkable portrait referred to, sent together with one for the King to the Italian court as presents from the artist, found such royal favor as to win for her an enviable decoration in the form of a rare watch set with diamonds and embossed with the royal emblem.

Madame Yu also embroidered a portrait for the late Empress Dowager of the Tsing Dynasty, who thereupon appointed her Instructor of Embroidery of the Imperial Household. Later she became the organiser and director of the Nantoon Embroidery Works which provided for the training in advanced technique in embroidery. The selected product of the works also became a feature on the Fifth Avenue of New York.

Mixed Court Jottings

Four masons were fined $5 each in the Mixed Court yesterday for intimidation of workmen who had returned to their duties in a new building on Kwenming Road, following the recent strike. The defendants, according to the police evidence, had tried to get the returned workers to again walk out, and on their refusal had carried away their tools.

A mafoo who has been wanted by the police since August 18, 1920, when a Chinese was stabbed to death at 894 Chekiang Road, was arrested Monday night and appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday, when he was charged with the murder. The police claim that the man, on arrest, confessed responsibility in the affair, absolving five others who are alleged to have participated in the crime. Mr. F. J. Schuhl appeared for the accused and requested a special hearing, which was granted.

A chauffeur charged with reckless driving and running down and killing a Chinese child on May 30 was absolved of blame for the accident by the Court yesterday and the charge against him was dismissed.

Mail matter for the Monteagle must be at the American postoffice before 6 p.m. Friday.

The next inbound mail is due from San Francisco on the China Mail steamer Nile, Sunday.

Propose Extension Of New Court Powers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

MEN ACCUSED OF FAMINE FRAUD ARE PUT ON TRIAL

High Officials Deny Lending Names To Scheme

The two Chinese charged with defrauding residents of San Francisco by means of a fake famine relief appeal printed in the San Francisco Chinese papers were before the Mixed Court again yesterday, the case being further adjourned until next Tuesday.

When the case was called yesterday Mr. Ponson Chu appeared for the first accused and Mr. Sterling Fessenden for the second accused, while Mr. S. McKean was present on behalf of the China Famine Relief Committee and Mr. R. C. Faithful prosecuted on behalf of the police.

Letters from ex-President Li Yuan-hung, ex-Minister of Finance Liang Shih-yi, former Minister to Japan, Wong Ta-hsieh and former Premier Chien Nun-hsun, denying that they had lent their names to the enterprise, were read into the evidence. Mr. Li Kwe-yoong, of the Chinese Maritime Customs, was the principal witness for the prosecution. He stated that, as secretary of the China Famine Relief Society, he had received a letter from a Chinese named Zan Kyi, residing in New York, calling his attention to the advertisement in the San Francisco paper and expressing doubt of its genuineness, because of the political differences of the men named as patrons. Mr. Li wrote to the men named and the replies introduced into Court were the result.

A report was made to the local police and they visited the address at 1144 Sinza Road which was named as the proper place to send subscriptions. The first accused when arrested implicated the second accused and said that he had merely been asked to handle mail received for the latter. Placed on the stand, the first accused declared that he had been taken in a trap by the other defendant, who "owed him a grudge." The police testimony included the evidence that two chops, one of which had been used in claiming registered letters at the American Post Office, were found in the house of the first accused.

According to the evidence of the first accused, both defendants are heads of Chinese benevolent associations and the second accused came to the witness and arranged a joining of the two.

It is alleged that the fraud resulted in the receipt and negotiation of orders for at least G.$252. One registered letter is still at the American Post Office, the officials refusing to deliver it over.

TROUBLE LOOMS FOR GEN. CHANG ON EVE OF TRIP

People Of Honan Blame Him For Order To Kill Slayer's Mother

(United Press Correspondence)

Peking, June 11.—General Chang Tso-lin's path to fame is not going to be bordered with roses according to indications and there is already a growing disposition in some quarters to flout his authority if an opportunity is offered.

The officials of the three special administrative districts in Inner Mongolia have wired the Central Government to know to whom they shall report and to whom they shall look for guidance in military matters connected with the Urga expedition. They want to know if they are forever cut off from communication with their Central Government.

When the President issued the mandate making Chang the High Inspector General of Mongolia in addition to his other titles, he was given full command over the special troops in a military way, yet the Government could hardly say as much in reply to the messages. The Government wired back that the officials of Suiyuan, Jehol and Chahar might report and appeal for guidance to both Chang and the Central Government. The messages did not say who would give the decision but the tone of the questions asks, indicates that the provincial authorities believe they have to deal with Chang only.

Added to these troubles, General Wu Pei-fu is continuing his barage of questions about Chang's departure for Urga and the people of Hopan are rising in wrath because they believe Chang the prime mover in the order to execute the mother and all the immediate family of the private soldier who murdered General Wu Ching-hung in Tientsin a few days ago.

The people of Honan declare Chang has returned to barbarism and it may take more than a presidential mandate to make them stop talking. At Chang's request everyone in China was ordered to stop talking about a monarchy restoration, and at his further request the people were ordered to stop speculating on what he and the other Warlords were doing in Tientsin.

In an interview given to a newspaper in Mukden, Chang indicated he may still ask for another presidential silencer because the people are talking about Japanese influence in the Government. In this interview he declared China to be the bulwark of Japan and that Japan is happy when conditions are quiet in China.

Birth Rate Drops In The Philippines

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 1 (by mail).—The birth rate in the Philippines has shown a considerable decrease in the five years ending in 1919, according to statistics compiled recently by the Director of the Philippine Health Service. In a memorandum accompanying the statistics, the Director says that no reason can be assigned for the decrease, which is especially marked in the city of Manila.

"The natality of the Philippine Islands has run in quite a puzzling curve," the Director states. "Birth rates have been steadily decreasing both here and in the provinces during several years.

"The average birth rate during the period of 1914-1919 was 33.59 per thousand for Manila and 38.46 for the provinces, as against the average for 1908-1913 of 36.97 for Manila and 39.93 for the provinces. We confess that no satisfactory reason can be given to explain this decrease."

House Votes For "Disarm" Parley

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 13.—The House of Representatives has passed the Porter resolution, declaring that Congress fully concurs with President Harding's intention of calling an international conference on the limitation of armaments, and appropriating $100,000 for preliminary expenses. It now goes to a joint conference of Congress.

Sex Instruction Issue Now Before Philippine Schools

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 1 (by mail).—A proposal to teach sex hygiene in the public schools of the Philippines has led to a warm discussion in educational circles in the Islands over the question of its propriety and advisability.

Mr. Luther B. Bewley, Director of the Bureau of Education, in commenting on a sex hygiene textbook which was submitted to the Bureau for approval, said: "Students in the third year of the secondary course are past the age when this instruction could be given with the most benefit. While the necessity for proper instruction along lines of sex hygiene undoubtedly exists, teachers in the public schools are not trained to give such instruction, and to attempt to have them give it would probably result in more harm than good.

"In the United States, the question of teaching sex hygiene has been advocated in certain quarters, but very little success has been attained in teaching this subject.

"If this is true of the United States, where teachers have received much better appreciation than the average teacher in the Philippine Islands, it does not seem advisable to undertake instruction in this subject with the present corps of teachers. A practical difficulty in giving this course in connection with the high school courses in biology is that most high schools have but one teacher of biology and sex hygiene should be given by a woman to girls, and by a man to boys."

Empire Conference To Convene Friday

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—At question time in the House of Commons today, Mr. Austen Chamberlain announced that Friday next had been definitely allocated for discussion of the agenda of the Imperial Conference. The Dominions Prime Ministers who are now here, with the representatives of India, held a consultation regarding the postponement of the Conference but consented to it as they attach great importance to the presence of Mr. Lloyd George, whose medical advisers have forbidden him to resume his duties in London this week.

The Canadian Prime Minister was informed of the postponement of the Conference by wireless.

CORPS REVIVED TO SUPPLEMENT FRENCH POLICE

French Consul-General Will Ask Government To Send Arms And Munitions

In connection with published notices announcing that the French Volunteer Corps is to be revived and reorganised and calling for volunteers to join the Corps, Mr. A. Wilden, French Consul-General, said yesterday that the military organisation of the French Concession again is being established to supplement the regular police force in the event that the necessity arises.

Mr. Wilden said that in case serious emergency should arise it was not believed that the regular police organisation would constitute a sufficient defense in the French settlement and it was therefore decided to reorganise the Volunteer Corps which before the war mustered more than a hundred members.

The French Consul-General said the call for volunteers, it was expected, would show the number of men available for service in a defense body such as the Corps will be. He referred to the recent outbreaks at Ichang and at Wuchang and rumors of trouble in connection with political changes in this province, but he said no danger existed that outbreaks like those that occurred on the Yangtsze could develop in Shanghai.

Mr. Wilden said that as the French Volunteer Corps is being formed he will direct a request to the War Department of the French Government for machine guns and arms and munitions of the most modern character with which to equip the new military organisation.

Those who intend to volunteer are asked to indicate what service they may have seen in the recent war and what branches of service in the Volunteer Corps they are best fitted to enter.

British Parliament To Quit In August

London, June 13.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Austen Chamberlain foreshadowed the prorogation of Parliament during the third week of August.

Argentina May Be Next Big Oil Center

(Reuter's Service)

Buenos Aires (by mail).—Exports in oil production say that, as a result of the rich discoveries of oil in the Comodoro Rivadavia field, Argentina may become one of the world's great sources of fuel.

The Well No. 128, which came in on February 28 with an initial production of about 1,200 barrels an hour, is continuing to flow at approximately the same amount.

The Comodoro Rivadavia oil producing area is located in the territory of Chubut, in the region called Patagonia, and is more than 600 miles south-west of Buenos Aires.

It was discovered in 1907 when a deep test was being made in an effort to locate a water supply. The Government, exercising its ownership of mineral rights set aside 12,500 acres of land in the district and began the work of exploiting the field. Later, another 12,500 acres was reserved.

Since that time 128 wells have been sunk and production has gradually increased up to the present. In 1920 the total production was more than 1,000,000 barrels.

The oil is heavy with small kerosene and gasoline content and is used principally as fuel oil, being sold to a number of industries in the country. Drilling depths are between 1,500 and 1,800 feet.

Transport To Take Bodies Of Soldiers From Vladivostok

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 1 (by mail).—The United States Army transport Merritt will probably sail for Vladivostok in July for the purpose of bringing to the Philippines the bodies of several American soldiers who were killed with the expeditionary force in Siberia. The bodies will be transhipped at Manila for the United States, it was said by army officers here.

Lease Bill Sent To President Harding

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 1 (by mail).—According to Mr. John Irwin, private secretary to the Governor General of the Philippines, the bill exempting Japanese leaseholders from certain provisions of the Land Law has been forwarded to the President of the United States.

Failure to transmit this bill to Washington for nearly a year after its passage by the Philippine Legislature had led to uncertainty as to its legality. It is expected that President Harding will approve the measure, which is felt to be of considerable importance to Japanese lease-holders in Davao.

"PRICELESS"
is a popular way of describing anything which has proved to be of exceptional value, and may therefore be employed to describe that old and favourite preparation—Beecham's Pills. The ever-increasing army of men and women who have experience of this excellent medicine generally use some such phrase as "priceless" or "Worth a guinea a box" when speaking of Beecham's Pills. This is certainly high praise. But it is well-merited. Beecham's Pills have proved, times out of number, to be a "priceless" preparation in the treatment of digestive ailments. They bring relief; they safeguard the health; they effect remarkable cures. All who suffer in any way from biliousness, sick headache, constipation, impaired appetite, and the resulting loss of energy and want of tone should take

WORLD COTTON LEADERS CONVENE FOR CONFERENCE

Lord Emmott Says Britain Soon Will Need Millions Of Bales Yearly

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—The World Cotton Conference, representing nineteen nations and presided over by Lord Emmott, formerly Director of the War Trade Department, has opened in Liverpool. Lt.-Col. John Shute, President of the Liverpool Cotton Association, in welcoming the delegates, said that good understanding between employers and employed was essential to the world's prosperity.

Lord Emmott, in an optimistic speech on the subject of the present industrial troubles, said he firmly believed, as regards the cotton trade, that before long the British Isles would need millions of bales of cotton yearly.

Replying to Colonel Wedgwood in the House of Commons today, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, President of the Board of Trade, stated that the proposed Government grant of approximately £1,000,000 for the purposes of the British Cotton-Growing Association was conditional on the cotton trade making a voluntary levy at the rate of sixpence per bale on all cotton consumed for a maximum period of five years. The grant was in lieu of five annual votes of £50,000 for the promotion of cotton growing in the Empire. The grant would not be derived from the taxpayer, but was the Government's share of the surplus derived from the operation of the Egyptian Cotton Control scheme in 1918 and 1919.

Hongkong Population 616749, Census Shows

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 13.—The Hongkong Government has issued a preliminary report of the census, taken last April, which states that the Sanitary Board's discussion of overcrowding, shortly before the taking of the census, gravely affected the accuracy of the returns in the congested areas.

In the New Territories, the majority of the inhabitants were absent from their houses, being engaged in making preparations for the planting of the rice crop.

Large numbers of the adult male population of the island and of the mainland were away in their native villages, it being the middle of the Ching Ming festival.

These factors undoubtedly reduced the numbers reported in some cases, but it is impossible to estimate the percentage which should be added to the figures in order to arrive at the true total of the normal population of the colony, but the figures of the floating population give an accurate idea of the normal average floating population. The following are the figures given:

The Island	341,360
Kowloon	122,126
New Territories (North)	65,692
New Territories (South)	26,627
Floating Population	70.796
Total	626,901

Later.—It is pointed out that the population of Kowloon City was counted twice in taking the census. This figure (10,152) must therefore be deducted from the total of the population of the Colony already given. The correct total is 626,901, minus 10,152, or 616,749.

MUTT & JEFF — Mutt Gets An Earful About Jeff And His Twin Brother — By Bud Fisher

ON THE LEVEL, JEFF, I NEVER KNEW YOU HAD A TWIN BROTHER! WAS THERE ANY RESEMBLANCE?
WAS THERE ANY RESEMBLANCE? WHY, OUR MOTHER COULDN'T TELL US APART!
THAT WAS INDEED REMARKABLE!
I'LL NEVER FORGET ONE DAY WHEN I WAS PLAYING IN THE YARD AND MOTHER CAME UP TO ME AND SAID:- "WHICH OF YOU TWO BOYS AM I TALKING TO; IS IT YOU OR YOUR BROTHER?
M-M!
I ASKED HER WHY SHE WANTED TO KNOW AND SHE SAID:- "BECAUSE, IF IT IS YOUR BROTHER I'M GONNA SPANK HIM". AND I SAID:- "IT IS NOT MY BROTHER; IT'S ME".
THEN SHE SAID: "YOUR BROTHER MUST BE WEARING YOUR COAT BECAUSE YOURS HAD A HOLE IN IT. AND I SAID: "NO, MOTHER; I'M WEARING MY OWN COAT".
THEN SHE LOOKED AT ME INTENTLY AND FINALLY DECIDED I WAS MY BROTHER AFTER ALL! AND SURE ENOUGH I WAS!

Team work on the part of employes in a pawnshop at 811 Ward Road prevented an armed robbery Monday night. Two men entered the shop late in the evening and one opened up negotiations for the pawning of a cotton jacket, asking 80 cents. The pawnbroker countered with an offer of 60 cents. The argument grew warm and finally one of the men produced a pistol and warned the inmates not to raise an alarm. 8,000,000 Russians Victims Of Typhus

(Reuter's Service)

New York (by mail).—More than 8,000,000 cases of typhus have been reported in Soviet Russia with a mortality as high as 50 percent in some communities, said a report by Dr. Harry Plotz of this city, head of a Jewish medical unit operating in Poland, just made public by the American Jewish Relief Committee.

In addition to typhus, the report stated that Russia has been swept by cholera during the last two years. In Petrograd there was a total of 12,000 cases with a mortality of 40 percent and cholera had broken out in some parts of Poland after the entry of Russian refugees.

Dr. Plotz' report dealt particularly with health conditions in Poland which he declared to be "still distressing." He outlined plans, which have the approval of the Polish Government, for re-establishing public baths throughout the country.

EARLY RAINY SEASON OFFERS BASEBALL CLUB COMMITTEE CHANCE TO FORM LEAGUE

Floods Suggest Round Table Conferences So That City Circuit Will Be Ready To Start Late In Summer When Rain Stops

THESE days are damp and dreary for the baseballer, the cricketer, the tennis player or the golfer. But in this part of the globe where Maranville can't be traded every two weeks or Charlie Brickley's doings in Wall street are of little interest, the sport writer is sure up against it when the skies open and the floods beat upon the cobblestones and rice paddies.

From this desk looking out the window it appears that the only persons sitting on the world are the members of the Clay Pigeon Club, the Revolver Club devotees and the bridge and billiard hounds for the lawns are wet and the Race Course is knee (or better) deep in aqua of the ultra pure variety at time of precipitation.

According to the Chinese seer the forty nine days of rainfall are early. The period should start with a thunder storm on the fourth day of the sixth moon—our crude Western calendar figures this at the eighth of July—for when the solar system is finally adjusted on that point of the year's progress it is "the day of little heat," probably another misnomer. Every July eighth we ever saw was sufficiently hot to provoke one or two prostrations and drive 4,000,000 coolies to the verge of nakedness.

The early flood drives not only sporting editors to saturation and desperation points. The unyet tried but thoroughly possible four team city baseball league is high though hardly dry in the wet air. The doubles and singles tournaments which aim to determine tennis champions of our fair city are held in abeyance. Cricket is impossible and the tea dances are drawing heavily.

Though these are not days to sport blazers they might offer opportunity for discussion of several questions. The weather, if it has also infested Japan, may mean that the Olympics of 1923 will be held in sweet September. It may mean that the schedules of local tennis tournaments will be started in July of next year or that the price of golf clubs will be lowered following the old economic law of supply and demand.

If you, young American, will go back in your mind's eye, you will remember that the hot stove league is kept burning in the Millinocket general store and the Owl Drug store by training camp tales, figuring how Sisler will do next Summer, betting that Millinocket will have a swell club in the Paper Mill League or that the Seals will chase the angels clear up Market street.

So that it is altogether fitting and proper that our enthusiastic efficient and hard-working Baseball Club Committee should gather around the big table with the roast beef and San Miguel and figure out our little city league for us.

Are we going to have the league?
How many teams?
Have the captains been appointed?
Have the players been convinced?
When does it start?
How many games a week?
How long will the schedule be?
Will there be prizes for batting, fielding, base running, etc
Has anything been done (really done) about the league to date?

Now then we suppose that the rain will stop and the old alibi will be there just as available as ever. But something could be accomplished if the proper spirit were in evidence, couldn't it?

California Team Is Still Winning

The University of California baseball team, which is touring Japan, meeting all Japanese teams defeated the Mita Club, reputed to be the best team in Tokio by a score of 9 to 0, in the fourth game of their tour.

It was the first shutout score the Californians secured in Japan, though their previous wins had all been decisive. Morrow, pitching for the Americans allowed but two hits, while his team-mates got 13 safeties. Monday's game against Keio university resulted in a score of 6-5 in favor of the home team.

BY "BUGS" BAER

Dear Person:

Unless my memory cogs are chasing on a neutral gear, this Gink Fowler was curled up like a gummed label by my man Rusty Nales. Many a man has had a cigar named after him. But my man was the only bird who was named after a cigar.

Don't waste this letter. If you can't use it, send it to Siberia for storage duty. Rusty was knocked off in Sluggville, Dakota, because he gave his best pal a cigar coupon for a wedding present.

Yours Sluggingly,
BILL GORMLAY,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Like other villifiers of the champ of Roughtown and environs, Mr. Gormley proceeds astigmatically on the theory that the champ was crashed loose by his opponent. That would be laughable if it weren't so funny. Gink Fowler's nose never did fatigue duty on any canvas in the world. True, that the delectable tang of resin tasted like home cooking to him. True, that he often bivouacked on the ring floor. True, that sometimes he staggered to his corner with the aid of four men and a stretcher. But he always shook off the shackles of victory and emerged triumphant like a butterfly out of its cocoon.

THE DESERTED VILLAGE

This Rusty Nales was a tough subscriber. This Sluggville was a corrugated haven. But when Gink corteged up the main drag of Sluggville, smoking a dynamite cigarette with a short time fuse, all Sluggville tore loose from its hinges and went forth from there. Today, Sluggville is a barren village, deserted by all save its inhabitants.

When Rusty Nales wig-wagged his suicidal ambitions of meeting Gink in dudely combat, the reading and writing members of the Dakota Legislature awarded him the melodious citation for gigantic indifference.

There was no doubt that Rusty was a mean gorilla. And also no doubt that he had Darwined from the monkeys. And also no doubt that he had picked up new habits on the way. He had the face of a Madonna and the heart of a tigress. As a fighter he was second to none. He wasn't even fourth to anybody.

MAILED HIM DOWN

He surprised the rough debutantes of Gink's town by challenging the champ. The fight was tabulated to take place on the day that Standard Oil paid that $29,000,000 fine. The next step was to catalogue a suitable spot for the young war. Roughtown refused to have it as they considered that any fight under 400 rounds was brutal.

The fight was declared off and forfeits were returned to the pickpockets who thronged the arena. Gink cut out his usual wind-up and was disqualified for making a balk motion with a man on base. The second flirt of his lily-like fist caught Rusty Nales right on the head. Gink drove Nales through the ring and clinched him on the south side of the planks.

They use him for a coathanger to this day.

ARROW GOLF IS NEWEST SPORT IN U.S. COLLEGE LIFE

Bows And Arrows Used For Sticks And Balls; Holes Are Gunny-sack Targets

Arrow golf, a new game, is the sport of the day at New Hampshire College. It is played with bow and arrow instead of club and ball and targets of straw sacks are used to mark what in golf would be holes. The faculty have taken to it in a body and play daily over a nine target course. Undergraduates also have adopted the game.

Over the hills and through woodlots in the vicinity of the college the arrows are sped without need to consider ground conditions that would be hazards in real golf. Yet the game has qualities that make it highly competitive, with factors of strength and skill involved to a degree that maintains interest.

Arrow golf was invented in Durham by Professor W. C. O'Kane and has been developed by him and a group of other faculty members into the game which can be enjoyed on any farm or in the vacant lot of suburbs.

The course at Durham has nine "holes," or targets. These consist of sacks stuffed with straw, placed on poles, the bottom of the sack being five or six inches above the ground. The distances between the targets are from 200 to 600 yards. The average player can make a drive of 200 yards easily. The game, as in golf, requires that the circuit be made in the least number of "strokes." Some of the targets of the present course are possible one-shot plays, as there are possible one-holes in golf, though the probability that they will be achieved in one shot is remote.

The arrow golf player requires little equipment. Most of the players carry one bow, two or three arrows in a home-made quiver, and a guard for the left wrist necessary because the string strikes down on the wrist with great force. The player also wears a glove on the hand with which he pulls the bowstring, or at least three fingers of a glove, to cover the finger tips used.

Arrow golf has one great advantage over ordinary golf besides the ease with which a course may be arranged. It can be played in winter as well as in summer and has been played here over deep snow drifts on snowshoes in the face of blizzards. The arrows stand up in the drifts distinctly and even when they disappear in the depths, usually leave a perforation in the snow which is easily perceived.

England Scores 243 For 8 Wickets In Second Test

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—The inadequacy of the accommodation and the general inefficiency of the arrangements were again evident at Lord's today, when play was resumed in the second test match. A recurrence of Saturday's confusion and struggling among the crowds seeking admittance to the Ground was only prevented by a reinforcement of police. The principal queue of would-be spectators was a mile long, three deep, by ten o'clock in the morning. The weather was cloudy, with small breaks of sunshine. The attendance numbered some 28,000 persons.

The Australians, who had made 191 for three wickets when stumps were drawn on Saturday, had a sensational start, Bardsley being dismissed before a run was scored, and Armstrong following him to the pavilion with the scoring board registering 192. The last five Australian wickets added another 150 runs, Gregory scoring 52 in a rather streaky innings which included two chances, while a last wicket partnership between Carter and Macdonald produced 53. Australia was thus all out for 342.

England then started the second innings and the score stood at 243 for eight wickets at the close of the day's play.

Woolley was again the principal scorer, and played a brilliant Innings. Dipper and Hon. L. Tennyson were the two other most successful batsmen the latter being not out.

The Chairman said:

"This meeting of shareholders is a formal one and has been called in order to comply with the companies ordinances of Hongkong under which this company is registered.

"As statutory report, which has been in your hands for some days, affords you all the necessary information regarding the shares issued, the assets acquired and liabilities taken over from the Ewo Cotton Spinning and Weaving Co., Ltd., the Yangtszepoo Cotton Mill, Ltd., and the Kung Yik Cotton Spinning and Weaving Co., Ltd., also the assets realised and liabilities discharged between the date of incorporation of the company and April 30, 1921.

"A list of shareholders as on 14th instant is on the table and is open to your inspection.

"It will be remembered that the profits of the three old companies from January 1 to the time of the inauguration of the new company were to be donated to the latter—this was duly effected and, taking them into account, I am pleased to be in a position to report that the estimated result of our business to April 30 is very encouraging while prospects for the near future are distinctly good.

which, when compared with our issued capital of Tls. 4,900,000 consisting of Tls. 4,000,000 ordinary and Tls. 900,000 preference shares, must be considered very gratifying."

The statutory report was adopted on the motion of the chairman, seconded by Mr. Mackie after which the meeting was terminated.

WOOD AND FORBES MISSION TO VISIT CHINA NEXT FALL

Invitation Of Peking Is Accepted; To Go To Capitol Direct

General Wood and Governor Forbes have just informed Chinese Consul General Chow Kwohsien at Manila of their acceptance of the invitation of the Chinese government to visit China. The Wood-Forbes mission, according to Mr. Chow, will leave for China on an army transport next September, heading for Tientsin from which city it will go to Peking direct.

According to Mr. Chow, the Chinese government will spare no efforts to give the members of the mission a most enthusiastic welcome and a pleasant time during their stay there. Not only the government but private entities as well will join in giving them a most fitting tribute to cement the friendship between China and the United States and reiterate the gratitude of the Chinese people to America for all that she has done for China.

Mr. Chow called on the commissioners at Malacanang, presenting to them the invitation from the Chinese minister of foreign affairs and the cablegram of invitation as follows:

"We hope you will accept our government's invitation to visit China. As Chinese citizens we extend to you our warmest welcome."

The cablegram was signed by Hsuing Hsi-lin, former premier of China; Wang Ta-sieh, former minister of foreign affairs; Liang Chi-chao, former minister of justice and finance; Chang Ji-lin and Fan Yuan-lien, former ministers of education.

The mission, it is understood, will later visit Japan in an official capacity.

PURITY CANDY CO. SUES FOR SALE PRICE OF STORE

Alleges American Oriental Bank Failed To Fulfill Purchase Contract

A complaint alleging nonfulfillment of a contract covering the sale of the business of the Purity Candy Co., on Nanking Road, was filed in the United States Court for China yesterday afternoon against Mr. F. J. Raven and the American Oriental Banking Corporation by the partners of the Candy Company, Messrs. L. F. Jovino, Charles Margelis and Mrs. A. C. Mack. Mr. Raven is named separately as manager and director of the banking corporation.

The complainants set forth that on Jan. 22, 1921, the defendant offered Mr. Jovino $16,000 for the Purity Candy Company, its shop and factory and leases thereon, together with furniture, fittings, stock, etc., which offer was accepted. A sale agreement was made in writing, the plaintiff states, and a promise made that he would be given a copy of such agreement together with the return of securities which had been deposited at the defendant bank to secure certain overdrafts of Gold, totaling Mex. $10,655.68.

The defendant took over the business of the Purity Candy Co., the plaintiff continues, including the store, godown and factory premises, removed all stock, machinery and utensils and took entire possession of the business, but have failed, neglected and refused to carry out the terms of the sale agreement, or to credit the plaintiff with the sale price, $16,000, or to return the securities mentioned, in spite of frequent demands.

Judgment in the sum of $16,000 less $13,255.68 Mex. due the defendant is asked, together with the return of all securities, and for costs and further relief as the court may decide upon.

PARIS RATE

J. R. Hykes, Long Prominent, Dead

and while there suffered a slight stroke. He returned to Shanghai on March 27 and following his return was confined by illness to his home. His condition became so serious that on May 11 he was taken to the General Hospital, where he remained until the time of his death, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. A general breakdown, due to several complications is designated as the cause of death.

BORN IN PENNSYLVANIA

John Reside Hykes was born near Shippensburg, Pennsylvania, on August 9, 1852. He attended the Pennsylvania public schools and was graduated from the Pennsylvania Normal School, at Millersville, when he was scarcely 18. For several years after his graduation he taught in the public schools, continuing his studies privately, and was later appointed superintendent of schools in Johnstown, Pa. In the meantime he was ordained to the ministry and in September, 1873 he was admitted to the Central New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church and was appointed to a mission in China. He was stationed at Kiukiang, the youngest man ever appointed by the Methodist Episcopal church to a post in the foreign mission field. At Kiukiang he was engaged in evangelistic work and his labors there and throughout Central China continued until October, 1893, when he resigned to accept the position of agent for China of the American Bible Society, with headquarters in Shanghai.

His work with the Bible Society was marked with phenomenal success. When he assumed the position the highest circulation for the country was listed as 192,215 copies. Last year the circulation was 1,757,619, while in 1916 the figure mounted to 2,274,710, the subsequent falling off being due to war conditions.

HAD WIDE UNDERSTANDING

His success as head of the Society was due no less, it is felt, to his understanding of the Chinese language and customs than to his business acumen and executive ability and, above all to the effect which his wide sympathy had upon all with whom he came in contact. He is described by his closest friends as a "broad guaged" man and they cite his capacity for sympathetic understanding and helpfulness as possibly his most outstanding and endearing characteristics.

As friend in time of difficulty Dr. Hykes memory will remain engraved upon the hearts of many in Shanghai and throughout the land, for it is said that no one ever called in vain for his assistance, and his office was a haven for the troubled.

Civic affairs, as well as religious, occupied Dr. Hykes' attention, and he leaves an enviable record as a servant of the Municipality and of his country. He was for a time a member of the Municipal Council and for seven years was head of the Education committee, advocating many important reforms in the local system.

In 1900 he was made Vice-Consul-General for the United States and served in that capacity until 1905, when he resigned. He acted also during that period as Mixed Court Assessor, with notable success.

WAS ACTIVE MASON

Of late years Dr. Hykes has been exceedingly active and prominent in the Masonic Order here, holding many important posts in the fraternity up until the time of his death. He was a 33rd degree Mason and was District Grand Master of the District Grand Lodge, Massachusetts Constitution, China Masonic District, a post which he was nominated to last year. He was also Inspector General Honorary Deputy, of the Supreme Council in China of the Scottish Rites body and was President Emeritus—elected last April—of Nomad Oasis of the Shrine. He was a Past High Priest of the Keystone R. A. Chapter and for many years performed the installations, and he was an honorary member of the Rising Sun R. A. Chapter. He had the distinction, last Spring, of having the first class initiated in Nomad Oasis, by the special delegation sent by the Supreme Council named after him.

Had Dr. Hykes lived until October, 1923, he would have rounded out a full half-century of endeavor in China. His accomplishments in the interests of the Bible Society, with which he was so long associated, were gratefully recognised by that organisation and only last month in consideration of his long and able services the Society appointed him to the position of Consulting Secretary, thus relieving him of many more arduous duties while fulfilling one of the most important appointments at the Society's command.

Dr. Hykes has several times gone abroad as representative of the Society and as a delegate for other organisations. In 1910 he was a delegate to the World's Missionary Conference at Edinburgh and in 1916 he was called to the United States to take part in the celebration of the Bible Society's centennial.

Dr. Hykes is survived by his widow and four sons, to whom the sincerest sympathies of the entire community will be extended. Mr. Hykes was married in 1881 and Mrs. Hykes has endeared herself to a wide circle of friends through her activities in social welfare work in Shanghai and elsewhere. She was at one time president of the Shanghai American Woman's Club. The surviving sons are Mr. A. B. Hykes, of the United States Steel Products Company; and Mr. R. K. Hykes, of the Standard Oil Company, both in Shanghai; Mr. Edgar R. Hykes, of the Standard Oil Company, who is located at Mukden, and Mr. John M. Hykes, who has been recently in America and is expected to return to Shanghai shortly.

Funeral services will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon at Pahsienjao Cemetery, the Masonic bodies being in charge.

Peking Students Resent Ma's Arrest

Several thousand students held another demonstration in Peking Monday following the arrest of their leader, Ma Shu-lun, as a result of the recent parade. The clothes worn by the injured students were hoisted up on poles. The military police stood by without interfering with the procession.

Ma, it is reported, has gone on a hunger strike in his hospital, where large numbers of armed police are stationed to watch him. Premier Chin favors the severe punishment of Ma, whom he considers as the chief agitator for the present strike.

How teachers and students were oppressed and assaulted by the Peking administration and its servants was graphically related by three representatives, who recently arrived in Shanghai, at a banquet given by the delegation to representatives of the local educational bodies and the press at the Yih Ping Shang last night. The hosts were Dr. Z. S. Ko and professor C. H. Taine of the Peking Government University and Mr. Meng Shao-chun.

Messrs Ko and Taine spoke on behalf of the delegation while Mr. Yih Chu-chang, Dr. F. C. Tong, Mr. Abel Tsao and Mr. Chao Chung-hui urged sympathetic support for the Peking educational movement by the local bodies.

Steamer Anchises Carries A Notable List Of Passengers

When the Blue Funnel liner Anchises sails down the Whangpoo on Friday morning it will carry away from Shanghai one of the most interesting list of passengers that has ever left the Model Settlement.

Wood, for years president of the Shanghai Cricket Club and without doubt one of the most popular men who ever lived here, will be among the passengers who will bid a final farewell to the shores of the Muddy Flats.

Mr. and Mrs. Mancell, who are known here for their work in philanthropic and charitable activities; Miss Slee, the sister of the late Mr. Slee; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Macgregor, popular in business and pleasure; Mr. John Waddell, well known in musical circles and for some time honorary organist at Holy Trinity Cathedral; and Mrs. Cartlidge, the Commissioner of Girl Guides for China will all be on board.

Shanghai Life Insurance Co.

An extraordinary general meeting of the Shanghai Life Insurance Company was held at the offices of the company, 10 Canton Road, at 11:45 this morning.

There were present:—Messrs. R. G. MacDonald (Chairman), E. T. Byrne (Director), R. McGregor (director), J. K. Tweed (manager) and shareholders representing 20,795 shares.

The chairman said:

"Gentlemen, before proposing the resolutions copies of which have been in your hands for some time, I propose to deal with the suggested alterations separately and explain to you the reasons which have prompted your board of directors to propose the changes in the articles of association.

"Clause 18 deals with the investment of funds. When the articles of association were first drawn up, it is evident that it was anticipated that the company would confine its operations to China and to the British Empire. The new clause will provide for conditions as they are at present, that is to say, for our operating in fields outside China and the British Empire, and to provide for the investment of funds in places where we have policies in force. This extension of the powers of investment is necessary if we are to provide absolutely against fluctuations in the exchanges between different countries.

ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION

"Paragraph (b) of the Resolution deals with clause 59 of the Articles of Association. Under the existing clause 59, the board may not borrow more than $50,000 without the sanction of a general meeting. We now have branches in the most important cities in the East, and you will realise how difficult it is to carrry on with a restriction such as that which is imposed. In order to get the best returns from interest on our funds, we should keep closely invested, but we cannot keep closely invested if it is necessary to keep liquid funds in each of our agencies in order to pay claims which may occur. In addition to this point, you will appreciate that where a suitable opportunity for investment arises, it is often advisable to borrow money to take advantage of the opportunity, repaying the loan with income as it comes to hand. You are probably aware that during the War the English insurance companies borrowed some millions of pounds in order to invest in the War loans which were issued by the British government, repaying these loans gradually as the Premium income came in and by the gradual realisation of other securities. If you pass the resolution which will presently be proposed it will not be necessary for the board to call a general meeting when they decide to borrow more than $50,000 at any time.

"Paragraph (c) deals with clause 65 of the original articles of association. At the time the original articles were drawn, it was intended that the company's financial year should end on March 31. Some years ago we altered that at a general meeting, making the financial year end on December 31, and the date of the annual meeting was also dealt with at the general meeting. Now that we are making changes in the articles of association, it is advisable that we should change this particular article in accordance with the previous resolutions which have been passed at general meetings, and in accordance with the present practice. It is practice always to hold the annual general meeting as early in the year as is possible, that is to say as soon as we can get the accounts and the actuarial valuations completed.

"If the resolution is passed the clause will render it necessary for a general meeting to be held once a year, but it will not specify any particular time or month at which that meeting must be held.

VALUATION AND PROFITS

"Paragraph (d) deals with clause 130, and with the question of actuarial valuation and with the distribution of profits. Your board is of opinion that the time has come when this company should place itself more in line with the practice of the great majority of companies in England in the matter of the declaration of profits and the actuarial valuations. The profits of a life insurance company vary very considerably from year to year.

"An epidemic or a great depression in the money market may very greatly diminish the profits in any particular year. It has therefore been thought advisable that your directors should take power to make a declaration of profits should they think fit, once every three or five years. This will have many advantages over our present practice, which is to make a valuation and a distribution of profits once every year. Under this system the profits are liable to annual fluctuations. Under the present system, moreover, we are unable to hold the annual meeting of the company in any year until the actuarial valuation is complete, and the making of the Actuarial valuation once a year is quite an expensive matter, requiring the attention of a special staff whose work during the whole year is practically confined to valuation work. It is intended, however, for the information of your Directors, to continue to make an Annual Valuation, but the work will be more spread over the year, and consequently be performed more economically. The directors will no longer be called upon to distribute profits every year but will be able to wait till they see what the result is after a period of three or five years. In this way an additional factor of safety will be introduced and violent fluctuations in the rate of bonus declared avoided."

RESOLUTIONS

Action for the passing of the following Resolution was unanimously carried:

That the deed of settlement of the company be altered as follows:

(a) The following clause shall be substituted for clause 18 namely:

"The paid up capital for the time being, the reserve fund and all other moneys in the possession of the company (except such sums as the board may consider necessary for the disbursements of the company) may be invested in the public stocks or funds or government securities of Great Britain, or any Foreign government, company or state, or upon mortgage (on such title as the board may think proper to accept and either subject or not subject to prior incumbrances) or purchase of lands or buildings of any tenure in China or Hongkong or any other place where the company may for the time being be carrying on business, or in or upon the stocks, funds, shares, debentures, mortgages or securities of any corporation (incorporated or unincorporated) or public body, municipal, commercial or otherwise, in Great Britain or China or Hongkong or any other place where the company may for the time being be carrying on business, or may place on deposit with any bank or banks from time to time selected by the board. The board may from time to time vary or realise any of the said investments."

(b) That the following clause shall be substituted for clause 59, namely:

"The board may from time to time at their discretion borrow from the directors, shareholders or other persons any sum or sums of money for the purposes of the company."

(c) That the following clause shall be substituted for clause 65, namely:

"Subsequent general meetings shall be held at such time and place as may be prescribed by the company in general meeting, and if no other time or place is so prescribed a general meeting shall be held once in every year at such time and place as may be determined by the board."

(d) That the following clause shall be substituted for clause 130, namely:

"The board may when they think fit and shall once at least in every five years cause an investigation to be made into the financial condition of the company with a view to distribution of profits. Every such investigation shall cover the period which has elapsed since the preceding investigation and shall include a valuation of the liabilities of the company by an actuary. Upon the completion of every investigation hereunder the board shall declare what sum, if any, is available for distribution as profits. Such declaration shall be laid before the company in general meeting and the company may in general meeting sanction the distribution as profits of the whole or part of the sum so declared to be available for distribution or may decline to sanction any distribution thereof."

This resolution is to be submitted for confirmation at a special resolution to a second extraordinary meeting which will be subsequently convened.

B.W.A. HEARS OF GIRL GUIDES FROM MRS. CARTLIDGE

The purpose of the Girl Guides Movement and its progress in Shanghai were described by Mrs. Cartlidge yesterday before a meeting of the British Women's Association. There are at present seven companies of Guides in Shanghai and an eighth corps, made up of older girls, is in process of formation.

The two chief promises of a girl joining the Guides are loyalty to country and to God. Members hold themselves in readiness to render any patriotic service for which they might be called. Though the movement is entirely undenominational, it emphasises the necessity for religion in a well-rounded life and aids the spiritual development of its members. Girl Guides are also pledged to build up their health by outdoor exercise and hygienic living.

Mrs. Cartlidge stated that though camping out is impractical in China, there are many opportunities for walks and for nature study. Last Christmas several Girl Guides "camped out" in their leader's home, taking turns in preparing the meals just as if they had pitched tent in the woods.

During the absence of Mrs. Cartlidge at home, Mrs. E. P. Graham Barrow will take her place as Commissioner of the Girl Guides.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 14, 1921

Spot and forward bar silver were unchanged in London yesterday as well as in New York.

The New York cross rate advanced to 375.

The official rates here today were unchanged from yesterday with the exception of the Yen rate which was advanced to 76¼ and the Rupee rate to 256.

The market at the opening was firm, a fair amount of business being done in Sterling at 3/6¼ and in Gold Dollars at 66¾. During the course of the day, however, a steady demand set in with the result that rates eased off considerably until as low as 3/6⅛ for Sterling and 66¼ for Gold Dollars was done.

The market closed fairly steady with buyers and sellers of Sterling at 3/6¼ and of Gold Dollars at between 66 and 66¼.

India and China are reported to have bought silver in London yesterday and the Continent to have sold.

The immediate outlook for silver is somewhat uncertain. While India will probably continue buying around the present level the Continent is likely to be a seller and it is difficult to see which of the two influences will predominate.

Singapore Rubber Auction

Singapore, June 1, 1921

A further decline has taken place in London since our last report, resulting in a corresponding drop in prices in the local market.

The auction was poorly attended throughout and only about half of the quantity offered changed hands.

Standard Sheets sold at 26 cts which shows a decline of 2 cts on the week, and is the lowest on record.

Sheet equal to Standard dropped about 2 cts.

Off quality Sheet was very difficult of sale, being not at all in demand.

No sales of Standard 1st Latex took place.

Crepe equal to Standard and Off Color Latex met with a fair competition only.

Fine Brown Crepe declined about 1½ cts.

Brown, Bark and Barky Crepes found buyers, but prices were poor.

The tendency at the close was rather easy.

DEATHS

HYKES: On June 14, 1921, at the Shanghai General Hospital, Dr. John Reside Hykes, in his 69th year. The funeral will take place at Pahsienjao Cemetery on June 15, at 5 p.m. All friends and brethren are invited to attend. 38764

McCONNELL: At her home in Portland, Oregon, on Wednesday, May 4, 1921, Miss Mary McConnell, beloved sister of Mrs. J. B. Sawyer. 38757

John Reside Hykes

A GREAT leader in Israel has fallen! Like a mighty oak which has withstood the storms of generations only to fall by the woodman's axe, our neighbor and friend has at last succumbed to the onslaughts of the grim reaper.

It would probably be not far wrong to say that the outstanding trait of Dr. Hykes was his human quality. A clergyman and a missionary he was without cant or unctuousness and seemed as much at home among men of the world as with those of his own calling. He appeared literally to have adopted the apostle's plan of being "all things to all men" that he might "by all means save some." And while himself of pure life and correct habits, he was very tolerant toward those who had been less successful in resisting temptation. He seemed able to discern the good in the worst of us and his kindly sympathy with the down and out was one of the secrets of his great popularity.

Dr. Hykes was a man of varied interests and to each of them in turn he gave all the energy of his intense nature. To the American Bible Society he devoted his best thought and toil long after his strength had begun to fail and the great fraternity which claimed so much of his time and attention held him to the last. He was a faithful observer of the scriptural injunction

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do and to this may probably be attributed in great part his premature passing. For Dr. Hykes was younger than many who are still with us.
Do it with thy might,"

Literally he wore himself out and his last months were those of great sufferings. Death came to him as a relief and it is for ourselves rather than on his account that we mourn. For "We shall not soon look upon his like again."

British Opinion On Japan

(North China Star)

BRITISH opinion on Japan's actions and on the advisability of renewing the now notorious Anglo-Japanese Alliance appears to be largely a question of latitude and longitude. Both figuratively and literally speaking, the greatest extremes seem to lie between the British in Downing Street, who have at least officially the final decision in the matter, and the British here in the Far East, who are in a position to be the best judges in the premises. It is only natural that British out here should be better posted on this one particular question, of the many complicated ones which confront British statesmen at home; but it is a little difficult to appreciate just why the opinion of those in the Far East appears to carry so little weight with the powers in London.

In a Reuter's message published today, the London agent of this pro-Government News Service declares that the British Foreign Office has given the Russian Soviet a "sharp rap over the knuckles" from presuming to charge the Japanese in Siberia with complicity in the hopeless uprisings that have taken place in Vladivostok and other sections of Siberia where the Japanese troops are present in a "neutral" capacity.

We venture to say that a Britisher in the Far East who does not know, as do practically all others out here, that the Japanese militarists have been, and still are, the main support of the machinations of the White Russians, Semenoff, Ungern and others, would be almost a curiosity. Several times within even the past few days our local British contemporary, virtually the official organ of British communities north of Shanghai, has quoted with approval and repeated emphasis, the statement of an American officer, son of the General who commanded the American troops in Siberia, that Semenoff, Kappel and others "murdered, burned and robbed at will and whose atrocities kept all Eastern Siberia in a state of fear and revolt," and adds that without Japanese help this would have been impossible.

We have never heard a serious person out here in the Far East deny that the Japanese militarists have always been behind Semenoff and his kind in their Siberian adventures, and we doubt if any serious person would listen with patience to a new attempt to prove a fact which everybody knows to be true. Both our Japanese English language contemporaries have virtually admitted this by publishing only a few days ago that Semenoff this time went to Vladivostok without consulting the Japanese and that therefor his cause is now hopeless: the inference, perhaps unintentional but certainly unequivocal, being that since he no longer had the support of Japan he might as well go out of business. We do not refer to his naive admission in any carping spirit, but on the contrary, think both the North China Standard and the China Advertiser are to be warmly congratulated on the manner in which they are handling the present situation in Siberia. Both papers are opposed to the Japanese militarists' policy in the Maritime Provinces, and we hope that their attitude is the one that will soon prevail in the councils in Tokio.

We must admit that if the note of Mr. Tchitcherin to London was anything like that of Mr. Yourin to Mr. Obata in Peking, it was a little shy on diplomatic etiquette, but, like Mr. Yourin's, it was probably long on hard cold facts, which is the all important consideration in these days when the world is trying to force through its popular demand for open diplomacy.

The note may have been embarrassing to answer, and it may have been good policy to "decline to enter into correspondence in the matter;" but we doubt if there is a Briton in the Far East who will fully agree with Lord Curzon's Secretary who criticises the Moscow Government for "not adducing corroborative evidence to address entirely baseless charges to another."

To call for "corroborative evidence" of Japanese assistance to the Russian reactionaries in Siberia, and to declare this fact, patent to everyone in this part of the world, a "baseless charge" gives a classic example of the crass hypocrisy of present day diplomatic correspondence.

That Mr. Lloyd George would be a huge success on the films, as a kindly father, is the contention of a well-known producer.

Other world-famous celebrities who would make good screen actors are the Prince of Wales, with his cheery smile and unaffected manner; Admiral Beatty, who would make a hero of the strong, silent type; G. K. Chesterton as another Fatty Arbuckle; and Mr. Arthur Balfour, who might be cast for the part of the genial and generous uncle.

Carty's Vision Of Telephony Like A Fairy Tale

World Will Be Made Over, Says Engineer, When Globe Wide System Is Perfected And Common Language Is Used

BY WILLIS STEELL
(New York Herald)

"I have faith that we shall some day build up a great world telephone system, making necessary to all the nations the use of a common language which will join all the peoples of the earth into one brotherhood.

"The possibilities of the future uses of the telephone are not to be limited; imagination cannot set a boundary to them. In five years a man and his wife, one at home and the other a thousand miles away, will talk with each other about the little happenings to either precisely as they do now when they face each other at the dinner table. Probably in their waking hours out of each twenty-four they will be more in touch with each other than they are now when they are only a few city blocks apart.

"In five years a subscriber to a newspaper phone may enter a booth, one of a large number set up in various parts of the city, and raising the receiver to his ear listen to a voice repeating the latest news of city and country and from abroad. This is already an accomplished thing in some European cities, Budapest for one. But it seems to be capable of vast increase and improvement.

"In a few years the transmission of plays and operas by phone to one's own fireside, where one can listen to either diversion without discomfort or even making any change in one's dress, will undoubtedly be perfected. The principle has been known for long; all that is required is a public demand to utilise it."

This is the vision of Col. John J. Carty as he reviewed the notable achievements resulting from scientific research, inventive genius and engineering skill that have had a part in establishing America's supremacy in the art of speech transmission. Such a review and such a prediction were essential corollaries of the latest exhibition of all that has been done in what must seem to many the fairy realm of telephony, and no man could relate so adequately the vast things that have been done or predict what shall be accomplished in the years to come as the man whose vision falls into the words quoted above.

Scores His Latest Triumph With New Cable To Cuba

He is the vice-president and chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, to whose genius and organising ability the recent and many preceding experiments owe their success. April 11 last was a triumphant day for him; then was held a country wide demonstration of what the telephone can do in a conversation that opens a new era in its history.

So used are we to marvels in the overcoming of distance that this demonstration, while exciting technical experts to enormous interest, scarcely seems to have been fully taken in by the man in the street. That street man is blase of wonders until he has well nigh lost the appreciation of them. He would calmly continue smoking a cigarette if some one told him or he read the news in The New York Herald that telephonic communication had been opened up with the planet Mars.

It is different with scientists and inventors who have followed the history of the telephone through all its phases, increasing as they do in wonderful elements as the slow years glide along. They can measure the days and nights of mental toil, the days and nights of physical experiment that preceded and led to new and more marvellous things.

The scientific world then listened with avidity to what Col. Carty had to say by way of introduction to what was shown on that April day in the Pan-American Union Building in Washington, when President Harding had telephonic conversation over the new submarine cable with President Menocal of Cuba, and members of the President's Cabinet talked with members of the Cuban Cabinet, Secretary of State Hughes talked with the Cuban Foreign Secretary and Gen. Pershing with the Cuban Minister of War.

Nor was this all. Greetings were exchanged with picturesque Catalina Island in the Pacific off Los Angeles. As plainly as though the several hundred guests were face to face with operators in Havana and Catalina Island they heard Havana speaking to Catalina and Catalina answering.

That April afternoon conversation was the longest in point of distance ever held by phone. Messages passed through 110 miles of cable, connecting Havana and Key West, Florida; thence over the land wires connecting the chief cities of the Atlantic seaboard with New York, Chicago, Omaha, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, San Francisco, Fresno and Los Angeles. These were transmitted by a radio link twenty-nine miles in length to Catalina. The total distance of these messages that passed under water, by land wire and by radio was 5,600 miles.

And the preliminary roll call of operators in this wide flung area occupied but two minutes, scarcely so long as it sometimes takes to get a city connection. It was described in a poetic way by a participator, J. D. Ellsworth, who said: "The vast area of America was rolled up instantly like a scroll. Distance had been annihilated."

"Give the same telephone equipment," said Col. Carty, "and these conversations might just as easily have been conducted between London, by way of Paris, Constantinople, Bombay and Calcutta. It will not be long before they are so held.

"In the near future a man in London will be able to call up Peking or the remotest city in Cathay. And with what has been shown it is scarce prediction, but almost certainty, that such telephone conversations will soon be possible.

Says Day Is Near When We Shall Talk Around World

"Had the talks of last month been held over land wires only the men speaking could have heard each other with the same clearness over 10,000 miles. Talk over submarine cable is difficult, although if there had been time we should have linked Catalina Island with the main line by means of one, as we linked Cuba to Florida.

"The time is fast approaching when we shall talk around the world. Utilising the equipment that the United States possesses it is possible for London to talk with Cape Town, with Calcutta, with Hongkong and Peking.

"In these almost limitless extensions everybody is personally interested; they are not meant for nations alone, although the political possibilities that will open up by this means in the next five years are not to be bounded, but persons will benefit individually. What would a man not give in a moment of emergency to be able to call up from New York his father in Peru or his wife in the Holy Land? The telegraph and submarine cables connect places, the telephone connects hearts.

"Naturally, as national interests are vaster than any individual necessity for communication that may arise, these developments are thought and spoken of in terms of nations. The time is now fast coming when the Premier of Great Britain will be able to hold daily telephonic conversations with the Premiers of Canada, Australia and the Viceroy of India. And these connections will be made in less time than it now takes to call up from New York a country house in Long Island."

The great experiment which gave force to Col. Carty's predictions needs a review in a little more detail. As a famous expert in the science of telephony responsibility is given to his vision of the future, while of course what he had to say of the affair of April 11 appeared clear and authoritative, even in outline.

"The cable which now connects Cuba with the United States, 110 miles in length, a mile under water in some places, is the longest telephone cable, deep sea telephone cable, in existence," said he. "It presented difficulties which are not generally understood, although such cables have long been in use and are familiar to us all. Nevertheless the problem of telephoning through a submarine cable in deep water is far from being solved and from 100 to 115 miles is the maximum achievement today.

"I have been asked why we did not use the air telephone across to Florida from Cuba. Briefly it is this: Although the staff of engineers which designed the cable used are the same ones who in 1916 succeeded in transmitting speech across the Atlantic to the Eiffel Tower in Paris, and although the Americans were successful in talking by radio to Hawaii, it wasn't a practical success. Words were transmitted and distinctly understood, also recorded, and so far that was an American achievement of which we as Americans have a right to be proud. It was a record for American engineers.

"But there are so many things which interfere with complete success and the wireless is so

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

much needed by ship masters and those who cannot get wire that I repeat wherever cable or wire are obtainable they are the things to use. I do not speak of the lack of secrecy for messages, although that enters the equation, but I think I have accounted for the employment of the submarine cable between Key West and Havana.

"The line then employed in this happy event proved completely successful, despite some things we should alter with more time for preparation. If this line were entended to the South through Mexico it would pass through all of the Central American countries and reach as far as Peru and almost to Brazil on the east.

"But if we should take this line and subtract from it the difficulty of the radio link which does not transmit well, if we subtracted the submarine cable, then by using the same kind of construction which we have across the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific—the transcontinental line—we would be able to talk from New York to each and every one of the states composing the Pan-American Union. When this southern line shall be laid we can easily talk by wire with the capitals of all the Central and South American States."

Col. Carty's vision sees this construction already completed. Whether before the world lines are laid in Europe connecting the various great cities of that continent with the cities of Asia or after he did not care to prophesy, although it seemed to be plain to him that England would be apt to advantage herself of the advances made for political reasons sooner than less wide flung empires.

"Whichever nation besides ourselves goes ahead does not signify," said he, "nor does it put a quietus on the great things that remain to be done. What has been accomplished I wished to show by this brief resume, which is too recent in men's minds to be forgotten or undervalued. Remember that it was only in 1876 that Alexander Graham Bell gave to an incredulous world the first speaking telephone. That is but forty-five years ago, and many of the visions that he and his associates had regarding the service of the future have already come to pass. Mighty as these were, they are transcended by the vision of what shall be.

"Why not? Epoch making steps are being taken all the time. They indicate vast progress, they promise great progress for the future. Into the ranks of engineers who study the possibilities of the telephone come yearly picked men from the universities and technical schools, who are fascinated by the conquest of distance and who give their very genuine powers to advance the art of electrical speech transmission. Many of them do big things which only their associates learn of, the great pubnc reaping the benefit of them without much recognition. Yet even this new blood joined with highly trained specialists and directed by master minds, with the accumulation of experience, added to by initiative, cannot put the word 'finis' to this task. No, that word may not be written to this art for another century.

"In 1920 hundreds of new patents relating to the telegraph and telephone, issued in various countries, were examined and tested. This company acquired, applied for and issued to it in that year over 1,000 patents. Does this look as if anybody were sleeping?"

In developing radio art active work was carried on at the same that other engineers were at work making important advances in wire transmission and improving the transmission over the transcontinental circuits. Two experimental radio telephone transmitting and receiving stations were erected on the Atlantic coast, one near Asbury Park, N. J. and the other near Plymouth, Mass. By means of these stations radio-telephone communications were maintained with two ships, experimentally equipped, plying from Boston to Southern ports.

During the war the company's engineers, working in coordination with the army and navy, produced many inventions and improvements in radio and equipment. These included radio telephone equipment of airplanes and submarine chasers, radio telegraph equipment for the reception and amplification of signals, detecting apparatus to be installed on the surface and on submarines when at rest and in motion and for use in airplanes. There were devised also detecting apparatus to be installed on shore at fixed submarine stations connected to the shore by cable and signalling and direction finding equipment, amplifiers and circuit arrangements to use with all detecting apparatus. Then followed the development of apparatus for the detection and location of invisible airplanes and apparatus for locating accurately the position of enemy artillery by flash and by sound. These results were rapidly referred to in order to show by them how much more could be done. Radio, in the opinion of experts, is still in its infancy, but its marvellous development in a short time ought to be argument in favor of the possibility of Col. Carty's vision.

MARCONI PAYS TRIBUTE TO COL. CARTY'S ACHIEVEMENT

Marconi was interviewed in London after the great exhibition of April 11, and this is a resume of what he said. The wire part, the getting of a telephonic message through 5,000 miles of land line, is what the inventor of wireless considered remarkable about Col. Carty's demonstration. The inventor is quoted in the Times of London as saying:

"I think we shall be able to telephone to America in the near future. Our only hope at present is by wireless telephone, not by ordinary telephone. If you have got something with which you can speak all day to New York there will certainly be many people who will want to use it. I do not think it will be in every house, but I think that for long distance work it can be connected to an ordinary telephone exchange and enable the subscribers to speak to distant countries from their own homes.

"Supposing we have a station in London and a station in New York, I think you will not need to go to the wireless station in order to speak to New York, but will be able to be connected on your own telephone. I need not enlarge on the importance of the development for connecting up the various parts of the empire—it is self-evident."

The difficulties encountered in an attempt at cable telephony are dwelt on by everybody, whether experts in Europe or America, but while they are considered to be insurmountable in Europe they are not so considered here. The fact that telephone communication was perfectly clear and distinct over the submarine laid between Havana and Key West is a step that many engineers of Europe scarcely yet take in. Up to that success communication under water had been between places separated by but a short space, and it is the belief of many American engineers that subsequent difficulties will be overcome in their turn. Other difficulties, such as maintaining telephone wires over almost interminable distances, like a wire from London to India and perhaps the Cape, are not called such by Col. Carty and his engineers, the complete success of a wire from Havana to Los Angeles having refuted the doubters.

"Suppose," said another officer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, "that it were decided to lay a wire from England to India. It would almost certainly go through France and Spain, across the Straits of Gibraltar—the cable there would not be too long—and along the whole of Africa to the Cape. We have demonstrated that a wire of such length is perfectly practicable.

"The doubtful European engineers have not taken fully into the account all that has been done in the United States to render long distance telephony a comparatively easy problem. When we suggest communicating by wire over vast stretches of country we mean that all that has been discovered and proved effective over our own transcontinental wires must be utilised.

"To say offhand that a cable across the Mediterranean will not transmit the human voice is to say what needs to be proved. A short cable is all that would be necessary to connect Italy with Sicily, another short cable could be laid between the southern coast of that island and Malta and one not much longer would serve between the latter island and the nearest African coast.

"Even these cables, although they present no insurmountable problems, are not absolutely essential, for a land wire can jump from Constantinople or Scutari over into Arabia Felix and so on down into Asia. It would traverse some wild and broken country surely, but so does our transcontinental wire in America. The essential thing is for the people to want it badly enough and then it will come."

On this subject Col. Carty had something to say, but it was in the nature of exposition rather than argument. He referred to the long experiments made with underground cables. Much that was learned by these experiments is applicable to the cable under water.

Carty Tells Of Progress In Underground Cables

"Our first experimental underground cables were laid in 1881, and in 1913, the advances in the art of loading and balancing underground circuits and great improvements in intermediate apparatus resulted in satisfactory talking between Washington, D. C., and Boston by underground cable. This cable is 450 miles long, by far the longest underground cable in the world.

"Now, that was declared impossible. But it was done. The submarine cable is in its turn declared impossible; it's too expensive, it's this and it's that. Perhaps. Nothing is ever accomplished by overestimating obstacles, nor," he added with a laugh, "by underestimating them either.

"Many things are in the world today that in the country's centennial year would have been stigmatised as the flights of a diseased imagination, one that distanced the wonders of the Arabian Night tales. The flying horse of those stories is here, as I need not tell you.

"Many things, indeed, that have been discovered in the pursuit of the best methods of transmitting speech over long distances are not yet ready for publication because they are not commercially ready yet. If you could get an engineer in love with this subject to open up to you his dream of what was still to be accomplished you would be lost in astonishment, but not, I hope, in incredulity. His purpose in life is to overcome the difficulties that remain.

"I will end with a generality as I began: 'The telephone system that is coming, that nothing can stop from coming, will be one that will make our modern world over.'"

"The Girl Who Came Back"

If a man breaks into a house at dead o' night he expects, if discovered, to meet with a pretty hot reception.

But if the cracksman sends his pretty daughter instead, and the son of the house comes down in his dressing gown and finds the intruder's slender fingers toying with the family pearls, what's the upshot then, particularly if the girl is as attractive as Ethel Clayton?

A great scene? You BET!
